

One company, six departments and one shared passion

Omar

Founder & CEO

I started this company as its very first captain. Over the years, I've worked in nearly every role, from leading tours at sea to building the team that now makes it all possible. Watching people grow alongside the company has been one of the greatest rewards. In fact, our Operations Manager, Jose, learned to swim with me years ago, and today he leads one of the most important departments in the company. He is my right wing man.

No matter how much we grow, I believe the best leaders never stop learning, never stop listening, and never stop getting their feet wet.
